Companies have long been the heart of Quebec's economy. Behind commercial and social entrepreneurship (including the sharing economy, circular economy, etc.), there are entrepreneurs and buyers operating in an increasingly complex globalized world. This program, whose pedagogy is based in coaching, helps students understand and practice the skills they will need to be successful in business:

- Designing their approach
- Getting to know the company's ecosystem and the cultural codes of entrepreneurship in Quebec
- Understanding international business

The College offers a program for future entrepreneurs that will help them develop expertise in various fields. In fact, in the last semester, students will benefit from a pre-incubator-type program. Throughout their studies, students will have access to mentoring and support to help them realize their ideas and prepare to start up or take over a company when they graduate.

The program provides students with the skills they will need for the following activities related to the profession:

- Creating a viable business plan and model
- Finding funding
- Communicating in the language of the target audience
- Identifying constraints and opportunities
- Selecting consultants and partners
- Demonstrating sales and negotiation skills
- Using their emotional intelligence, instinct, and resilience
- Using efficient and effective technological tools to support the company project and business model

Training Objective

At the end of the program, students will be able to start up or take over a company. Students will have the necessary tools and support to get started or continue with a business.

Career Prospects

Future entrepreneurs have career prospects in every sector of the job market and economic activity, as entrepreneurs create new businesses or take over existing companies.

Plus, it is important to remember that during the program's final semester, future entrepreneurs can carry out their projects in a pre-incubator.

Admission Criteria

Have a training deemed sufficient and meet the admission criteria set for college studies.

Specific admission criteria:

- A letter of intent and a resume enabling the College to identify their skills, talents and interests in starting up or taking over a company.
- Once applicants have been preselected, an interview will finalize the admissions process.

Diploma

This program leads to an Attestation of College Studies (AEC).

Target Clientele

The program targets adults wanting to start up or take over an existing business, and who wants to learn new entrepreneurship and takeover skills.

Advantages

- In the last semester of the program, students will have the opportunity to carry out their projects in a pre-incubator. This will allow them to leverage the knowledge acquired during their studies
- Students will benefit from customized support by a team of coaches from the industry, throughout their training
- Students will form part of a small cohort, which will allow them to enjoy customized support and to orient their learning according to their business needs
